

HAS DAILEY A PULL?

Big Pay and Little Work While Under Indictment.

Is Mamie Hannan's Alleged Assault Plotting to Get Free?

Charged With Offering a Bet to a Principal Witness.

It is over three months since Roundsmen Matthew F. Dailey, then attached to the Police Station, was ordered by the Police Justice to stand on the alleged assault upon sixteen-year-old Mamie Hannan. The assault was alleged to have been committed on March 26 in the rear room of Joe Geller's saloon at Pitt and Throome streets.

Ever since that time Dailey has been drawing full pay and has been honorably engaged as a guard or keeper at the House of Detention. The other policemen there are first-grade patrolmen and receive $1,200 a year, while he has the distinction of drawing $7,500, the full pay of a roundsmen, and this in face of the fact that Dailey is under indictment for a crime which has not yet been proved.

Not only was Dailey indicted. He was tried by Police Commissioner Maclean, who moved that he be dismissed from the force. President Martin and the general public outcried him and saved Dailey's head. Action on the case was deferred last night, should prejudice his trial in the criminal courts.

It was, however, decided, to take off Dailey's uniform and detail him to duty at the House of Detention, "where he would see some in contact with the general public." As a result Dailey has been having a "regular picnic" as the boys would say, and drawing his salary for doing little or nothing.

ATTEMPT AT BRIBERY CHARGED. It may be incidentally observed in this connection that, while Dailey had had no charges preferred against him since last June, there is reason to believe that his duties at the House of Detention have not kept him from "contact with the general public."

EVERYONE WORLD readers may remember how successfully Capt. Eakins's Delaney et al. police failed to discover the whereabouts of Miss Lavinia, the young woman who was abducted from her home in the city and who was sworn to by Dailey and Sgt. Albert W. McDonald in Geller's saloon at the time of the alleged assault.

They may remember also that an EVENSING WORLD reporter located Miss Lavinia, and was instrumental in having her appear at James Market Court with the general public. Dailey had not only known where she was, but had also tried to bribe her not to testify against him.

Dailey has even more leisure time now than he had in March, and Mrs. Hannan is in very great fear that he will at last in his old tricks again and is working hard to injure her daughter's reputation and thus help his case. To an EVENSING WORLD reporter she said today:

"We have had no trouble or threatening letters since some of Dailey's friends tried to abduct Mamie some time ago. But I am still afraid that something will happen, no I keep Mamie in the house nearly all the time. I have seen Lavinia Lavinia since she went before the Grand Jury, and I haven't any idea where she is, although Dailey says that Mamie and I have both visited her at a house in Eldridge street. He says that he will have plenty of men who will swear that Mamie is of bad character, and I know of one young man who refused an offer of $100 from him to do so.

HAS MAMIE BEEN WON OVER? "When I hear of such things I am almost discouraged, but I am bound to see it through. Why, even Mamie herself now wants me to drop the case on account of the shame a trial would bring her."

"The poor girl is beginning to realize her condition, and the talk among the neighbors makes her feel worse. She will soon become a mother."

"At first I thought this was why she wanted me to drop the case, but at times I fear that Dailey has had some one talking to her, although I watch her closely."

"Only the other day a friend told me that she had heard from an authority that Dailey's trial would not come up until after election. It has been put off too long already. I am convinced that he has a pull, but I do not know how it is, or how he obtained it."

ONE PLACE WHERE THE "PULL" COMES IN. The suspicion that Dailey has a pull is not peculiar to Mrs. Dailey. Commissioner Maclean has seen the idea. Politics has delayed Dailey's dismissal from the force, but it is common talk at Police Headquarters that Dailey was promoted to be roundsmen right on the heels of a delinquent when he is alleged to have been a delinquent. Meakin, his superior officer.

His promotion, it is freely stated, was due to the fact that Justice Maclean, who was proceeding to return from Ireland his re-awakened interest in Dailey's trial.

It has been repeatedly said that the District Attorney's office that Dailey's trial would not be unnecessarily delayed. District Attorney Neill has returned from his vacation and the courts open Sept. 6.

DAILEY CASES ARE TRIED LAST. District Attorney Neill was not in when a EVENSING WORLD reporter called at his office, but Assistant District Attorney Harry Macdonald was acting in his place. Mr. Macdonald said:

"Roundsmen Dailey was not indicted until June. Then the courts ran down to two parts for fall delivery. Only prisoners in the Tombs and other jails have been tried."

No bail cases are now tried in July or August, and on that Roundsmen Dailey is not only on bail but on duty as a policeman at the House of Detention.

"I believe some one has been assigned to try Dailey's case and he will probably be tried at the September Term, which begins next Tuesday."

The reporter called Mr. Macdonald's attention to the whispering that Roundsmen Dailey was not brought to trial because he had friends at court, that Police Justice O'Reilly is said to be a friend of Dailey, and that there was some hesitancy about this pleading Judge O'Reilly.

A funny never was an administration of the District Attorney's office in which the man with a pull got the trial postponed. Assistant District Attorney Macdonald said:

"Mr. Dailey will be tried. The EVENSING WORLD is said to be a friend of Dailey, and he will be tried to convict if the evidence will do it."

Could he not be found guilty of assault on the girl Dailey will have to answer for his attack on Mamie Hannan's mother.

"YOU WANT TO KNOW THIS."

"THE WORLD" will print on Sunday the full complete life history, ever published, of the late Mrs. Hannan, written by Richard Watson Childers, Wilson S. Russell and George F. Parker. With it will be an account of the sensational trial of Mamie Hannan, and a striking picture of Gray Gables. Tell your newsdealer to save you a copy.

DOORMAN EMPIE CONVICTED.

Fined in Court on a Little Girl's Complaint.

Charges Also to Be Made Against Him at Headquarters.

Doorman Frank Empe, stationed at the House of Detention, was fined $10 this morning in Yorkville Court on a charge of disorderly conduct, and will probably have to answer before the Police Board to a charge of conduct unbecoming an officer.

Empe was arrested by Police Officer Shanley in Central Park yesterday afternoon on the complaint of the father of eleven-year-old Jennie Lydall, of 14 East 87th street.

Little Jennie ran home Wednesday afternoon and told her mother that while playing with other children in the Park, near the Eighty-seventh street entrance, a man had kissed one of two of the other little girls and then attempted to kiss her.

Jennie's father yesterday afternoon went to the Park with her. Empe was pointed out as the man by little Jennie, whose father immediately pointed upon him, called Police Officer Shanley and made a charge of assault.

When Jennie told her story in court this morning Justice Wells ordered a complaint of disorderly conduct to be drawn against Empe and then fined him $10.

Doorman Empe lives at 1072 Park avenue with his wife, a handsome woman, and a beautiful four-year-old daughter. He said he had taken little Jennie to the Park Wednesday afternoon as was his custom, and that she, knowing Jennie Lydall and the other children, began to play with them.

He said he had taken up some of the children and kissed them, and innocently said, "By Jove, I don't know what I am doing."

Empe's wife and child were in court, but were not permitted to testify. Mrs. Empe said her husband could not have been guilty of improper conduct.

Mr. Lydall said he would prefer charges against Police Headquarters against the doorman.

GRAIN TRADERS AND TRANSPORTATION COMPANIES FEEL THE CHOLERA SCARE.

Produce Exchange Traders Say That the President's Order That Resists from Imported Potatoes Will Paralyze the Grain Trade.

At the same time they generally believe that the precaution is fully justified by the danger which the disease carries. The shippers of grain who export the returning immigrants vessel to send over large cargoes of grain are the ones who will be most seriously affected by the President's proclamation.

Even now the pressure of accumulating stocks of new grain has begun to be felt, and it has affected the entire market, both here and in the West. If the prohibition continues to spread abroad the outlook for the grain trade, according to experts, is most gloom.

Heavy Loss in Steamship Companies. Other branches of business have felt the effect of the cholera scare as well. Imports have fallen off considerably, the steamship lines say, because merchants are afraid to ship goods from the cholera-infected regions, as there are many classes of merchandise which would be injured by the disinfecting process to which they would be subjected on their arrival here.

The detention of the big freight carrying vessels at quarantine on the other hand, interferes with exports and delays shipments.

Agent Board of the Hamburg Line, estimates that the loss of the steamship companies at this port in consequence of the cholera will amount to not less than $2,000,000 for one month. This includes loss of passenger, as well as freight business.

WIRE NEWS IN BRIEF. Mrs. Catherine Horan, of Syracuse, stabbed and fell last night, and a report had in her hand yesterday morning.
